

UtiliX[®] Expands into Cable Diagnostic Services, adding to its Leadership and Expertise in Power Cable Reliability

SEATTLE--(BUSINESS WIRE)—January 30, 2007--UtiliX[®] Corporation, the global leader in life-extension technologies for power and telecommunication cable, today announces the acquisition of the assets of the CableWise cable condition assessment business from DTE Energy Technologies, a non-utility subsidiary of DTE Energy Co. (NYSE:DTE).

“UtiliX is the worldwide leader in technologies for cable rejuvenation and life extension and offers its technologies to customers to dramatically improve their cable system reliability and lower their maintenance costs. The patented CableWise condition assessment technology will be a significant and complimentary addition to our CableCURE[®] technology and services,” said Tom Van Horn, President & CEO of UtiliX Corporation.

“UtiliX is a respected leader in reliability solutions for the electric utility industry, and we are excited about joining the UtiliX team,” said Nagu Srinivas, Managing Director of CableWise. Dr. Srinivas, an IEEE Fellow, will join UtiliX as Vice President of Cable Assessment Technology.

UtiliX will offer the CableWise condition assessment service to utility and industrial customers worldwide along with its existing CableCURE cable rejuvenation services. This combination will allow utilities to identify cable system defects and rejuvenate and repair cables before they fail and create major reliability problems.

UtiliX, a subsidiary of InfrastruX Group Inc. and Tenaska, is the global leader in life-extension technologies for underground power and telecommunications cables. UtiliX offers its proprietary, patented CableCURE[®] injection service and other reliability and testing services throughout the United States and serves international customers through subsidiaries and licensees in dozens of countries on four continents.
